While many magicians rely on the arts of deception or slight of hand to baffle their audience, we like to use principles of science to achieve the same effect. With the Pendulum Stop trick, you'll use the sympathetic motion of two pendulums to make your friends think they've developed telekinetic powers... or are a Jedi... we'll leave that part up to them. All you need are some household items and you'll be fooling people in no time at all!
